Has Fasting Down to Science; Indian Chemist Explains It

BOMBAY, INDIA.—In this land where a "fast unto death" is a popular weapon with which to support political or other demands, a noted Indian scientist has issued a treatise on "the chemistry of fasting."
He recommends the taking of mild alkalies to neutralize the bodily acids produced by fasting, declaring that "in starvation, glycogen of the body disappears first in three or four days, leaving fats and proteins to be oxidized. Quick oxidation of fats and proteins takes place and generates acetone bodies which are poisonous."

Mountain Lion Inspects Scout Party in a Mountain Camp

GREAT FALLS, MONT. — Thirteen Boy Scouts were seated around a council fire at their camp in the Belt mountains when a large mountain lion approached within 150 feet.
The animal studied the boys for several seconds, snarled a few times, then sprang away into the darkness—to the great relief of the unarmed youngsters.

British Commons Member Can't Find Socks to Fit Big Feet

LONDON.—Laborites G. M. Sharp and A. L. Symonds complained in commons that men with big feet can't find socks to fit them, even at the premium prices manufacturers are supposed to get. Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the board of trade, promised gravely that the matter "would be investigated."

Mine Owner, Heir to $260,000 Fortune, Not Excited by News

POTTSVILLE, PA.—Vincent Rizzardi, 50-year-old coal mine owner here, said he had received a cablegram from Germany informing him he was the sole heir to a $260,000 fortune.
His first comment was:
"I have enough. I don't need it."
Of course, he decided later, he'd take the bequest, which is mostly in stocks of U. S. companies, saying "and I want to pay the tax on it."
